ARCHERY

My name is Mina, and I'm a competitive target archer. I have competed at the professional level for many years now, and I've even won a few tournaments.

Target archery is a very popular sport, and it is particularly popular in my country. You could almost call it a national pastime for Koreans. There are even archery cafés in Korea! This might be why South Korea is known for producing some of the most talented archers in recent years. In fact, South Korean archers grabbed gold medals in all four categories of archery at the 2016 Rio Olympic Games.

The rules of target archery are simple. Archers shoot at a stationary target. Indoor competitions take place at 18m. Outdoor ranges can be from 25m to 90m. Each match is divided by ends which are counted as either three or six arrows. Archers shoot their arrows at a target with ten rings drawn on it. Each ring's value gets higher as it nears the center. After firing all shots, archers add up their scores and the archer with the most points at the end of the competition wins.

GEOCACHING

Hello, I'm Andrew and I have been an active geocacher for more than ten years. Geocaching is an activity for people who love exploration and adventure. It's essentially a giant game that involves using Global Positioning System (GPS) receivers to search for hidden treasures called geocaches. There are all kinds of geocaches. Some are very simple to find and others require the participant to solve puzzles to learn the cache's location. What waits inside each cache is a mystery. Geocaches can contain all sorts of different treasures, such as CDs, books, USBs, and even money. One common item in almost every geocache is a logbook. The logbook is a record of all the participants who have found the cache and contributed to it.

If you're interested in seeing what treasures lie out there, you can try this activity out yourself. Look online for nearby geocaches. There may be some nearby. Find one and then set off on your first geocaching adventure. All you need is a smartphone and a little bit of time to join in the fun.

> Go online and try to locate a geocache near you. Who do you think placed it there?

Grammar

6 Look at the table.

Remember, we use the past simple for past events or actions which have no connection to the present. We use the present perfect for finished actions when they have a connection to the present.

Present Perfect

The present perfect tense is used to talk about experience up to the present, to provide a reason for some action or state, and to talk about something which hasn't happened yet but is expected to happen. The present perfect tense construction is subject + have / has + past participle.
