Fun on our family trip

My family and I left San Francisco and took a trip to London for our last vacation. We stayed outside of the city and took a bus to the main tourist spots. One morning, we decided to visit Buckingham Palace, where the Queen lives. We were all very excited when the bus left the hotel, but we soon got bored and my parents even fell asleep. When we got there, we saw the Queen’s Guard. They’re the soldiers at the palace and they can’t laugh or speak to tourists. My sister and I tried to make one laugh. Emma went up to him and started telling him jokes, but he suddenly moved and shouted, “Stand back from the guard!” Emma looked really nervous. The guard didn’t think it was funny, but we all laughed about it later!

1 Are the sentences true (T), false (F), or doesn't say (DS)?

- 1 Everybody slept on the bus.
- 2 The first place they visited was Buckingham Palace.
- 3 The Queen’s Guard live at Buckingham Palace.
- 4 Emma spoke to a guard.
